FUND OBJECTIVE

The Fund's objective is long-term capital appreciation.

PROVEN MANAGER

Warrington Asset Management has a track record of only two down years in 24 among their strategies, winning the Pinnacle Award in 2017 & 2019 for the best five-year option strategy.

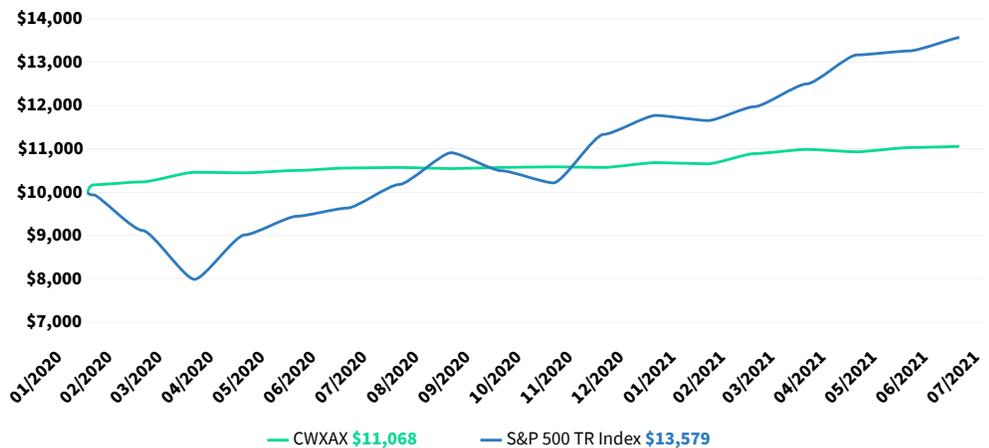

INVESTMENT STRATEGY

- The Fund invests primarily in long and short call and put options on U.S. Stock Index Futures contracts. It is managed as an absolute return strategy.
- The Fund seeks to achieve its investment objective by buying and selling options and option spreads on stock index futures. By trading options and options spreads, the Fund seeks to profit in three ways: (1) volatility trading, (2) trend following and (3) option spread trading.
- Volatility trading occurs because market prices of options are highly dependent on anticipated volatility of the underlying stock indexes. The Fund may enter options positions intended to hedge or profit from either an increase or a decrease in stock index volatility.
- The Fund may engage in trend following under certain conditions and enter options spreads that will profit from an established price trend.
- Option spread trading is a technique that yields profits if the market moves within the range of the established spread trade. Profit is captured when spreads are sold or long options within the spread are monetized.
- The Fund may invest long or short in stock index futures as part of its hedging strategy. The Fund may also use stock index futures as part of an option closing transaction. For example, rather than close an option transaction by selling a long put, the Fund may use a long futures position to deliver against the option.

Prior to 1/27/2020, the Catalyst/Warrington Strategic Program Fund implemented a different investment strategy and used a different sub-advisor.

The Catalyst/Warrington Strategic Program Fund trades options on the S&P 500 Index Futures and targets a wide range of directional profitability trades by buying near-the-money strikes and selling deep out-of-the-money strikes.

What We Do

- We combine technical and fundamental analysis to formulate a near term outlook.
- We then express our opinion using options on the S&P 500 Futures Contract.

Fund Implementation

- Buys near-the-money strikes and sells deep-out-of-the-money strikes.
- Maximum option expiration of 3-4 weeks.
- Targets a wide range of directional profitability – the market must move for the strategy to be profitable.

Glossary:

Alpha: A measure of the difference between a fund's actual returns and its expected performance, given its level of risk as measured by beta. Beta: A measure of a fund's sensitivity to market movements. R-squared: A measure of the relationship between a portfolio and its benchmark. Option Spread: A type of option that derives its value from the difference between the prices of two or more assets. S&P 500 Total Return Index: is considered to be generally representative of the U.S. large capitalization stock market as a whole. You cannot invest directly in an index and unmanaged index returns do not reflect any fees, expenses or sales charges.

Important Risk Considerations:

Mutual Funds involve risk including possible loss of principal. The Fund will invest a percentage of its assets in derivatives, such as futures and options contracts. The use of such derivatives and the resulting high portfolio turn-over may expose the Fund to additional risks that it would not be subject to if it invested directly in the securities and commodities underlying those derivatives. The Fund may experience losses that exceed those experienced by funds that do not use futures contracts, options and hedging strategies. Changes in interest rates and the liquidity of certain investments could affect the Fund's overall performance. Other risks include U.S. Government securities risks and investments in fixed income securities. Typically, a rise in interest rates causes a decline in the value of fixed income securities or derivatives owned by the Fund. Furthermore, the use of leveraging can magnify the potential for gain or loss and amplify the effects of market volatility on the Fund's share price. The Fund is subject to regulatory change and tax risks; changes to current rules could increase costs associated with an investment in the Fund.

Performance shown before September 2013 is for the Fund's predecessor limited liability company (Harbor Assets, LLC). The prior performance is net of management fees and other expenses including the effect of the performance fee. The Fund has been managed in the same style and by the same portfolio manager since the predecessor limited liability company's inception on December 15, 2005. The strategy and portfolio management team have changed as of Warrington's appointment as sub-advisor. The Fund's investment goals, policies, guidelines and restrictions are, in all material respects, equivalent to the predecessor limited liability company's investment goals, policies, guidelines and restrictions. From its inception on December 15, 2005 through the date of this prospectus, the predecessor limited liability company was not subject to certain investment restrictions, diversification requirements and other restrictions of the 1940 Act or the Code, which if they had been applicable, might have adversely affected its performance. In addition, the predecessor limited partnership was not subject to sales loads that would have adversely affected performance. Performance of the predecessor fund is not an indicator of future results.
